

A detailed botanical illustration on aged paper. At the top center is a large, spherical yellow flower with many small petals. To its left is a moth with orange and black wings and two red spots on its thorax. Below the yellow flower is a dark, cylindrical seed pod with several red spots. To the right is a single, elongated flower bud. The bottom right shows a large, oval seed pod and a smaller seed. The background is a light beige color with a red diagonal stripe running from the top left to the bottom right.
